STRIKE BY CAPITALISTS.

SOME QUEER BUSINESS RUMORS.

Reported Organized Movement to Crash Out Trades Unionism—Alleged General Lockout to Head Off a General Strike.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The belief prevails here, among many who are in a position to speak with intelligence, that the depression in the iron and other manufacturing industries is largely fictitious. But there is a reason to believe that this curtailment is well-considered, and that it is a part of a concerted plan on the part of heavy manufacturers to strike a telling blow at trade-unionism by hitting workmen hard at that season of the year when they are most helpless. In other words, it is believed that there is in progress a quiet and determined strike of capitalists against labor, taking the form of general lockouts in all the great manufacturing centers of the country. The vigor shown during the last eighteen months by the trades organizations has had the effect of arousing capitalists whose money is invested in manufacturing to the belief that they are on the eve of a great struggle for the mastery of their own property. There is, furthermore, a belief that the labor organizations will not delay longer than the next summer a definite test of their strength, and that, unless they are demoralized and disrupted during the present winter, there will be, as early as July next, another widespread strike similar to that which culminated in the Pittsburgh riots, and that it will be tenfold more serious and determined than anything that has been seen in the history of this country.

For this reason the theory is that the manufacturers are this winter determined on a starving out process, which will leave the workmen next season hungry enough to be glad of anything that will give them bread. The closing of the Pennsylvania coal mines, and the shutting down of manufacturing in all parts of the country, throwing thousands of men out of employment at the time when they most need employment, is regarded as the evidence of a concerted policy of this nature. The effect of this course has already been to create an uneasiness in the business world which is not warranted by adequate foundation, this alleged depression being more artificial than real, and it is feared that, should the policy be pursued, there will be a temporary commercial disturbance as damaging as it is unnecessary.

In addition to the concerns that have already closed and thrown out their employees, there are rumors of many more heavy manufacturing plants about to take the same step, and by the first or second week in January, it is believed, the lockout will be fully developed into an organized capitalists' strike.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

The Casino in New York Attacked by Incendiaries.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—A remarkable story of an attempt to burn the Casino, at Thirty-ninth street and Broadway, on last Wednesday night was made known yesterday by Inspector Byrnes. Yesterday morning Mr. Randolph Aronson and his brother Edward, the managers of the Casino for the stockholders, called upon Inspector Byrnes and informed him that a dastardly attempt had been made to destroy the Casino by fire. Detectives Stevin and Duzenberry were assigned the case, and, on making an examination, they discovered that a box filled with combustibles had been placed in a little room over the balcony box, and that a lighted candle had also been placed in the box, which, on burning down to the bottom, would set the inflammable matter on fire and probably would have destroyed the watchman, Frederick Tryburg, on going his rounds, noticed that the door of the little room was fastened and a light was burning in the room. He quickly forced open the door and discovered the candle burning in the box of combustibles. Suspicion fell upon Edmund J. Rough, the stage carpenter, and he was arrested yesterday as he was leaving his residence. On being taken to police headquarters Rough at first denied his guilt, but on being confronted with Mr. Aronson he confessed that he placed the box in the little room on Wednesday afternoon, and that he put the lighted candle in the box just before he rang up the curtain for the last act. He said the reason he attempted to burn the theater was because he had been given notice to quit, and he did it out of revenge. There were about 1,300 people in the Casino at the time, and had Rough succeeded in his evil design, the consequences would have been terrible. Rough is a Scotchman by birth, about twenty-seven years of age, and has been employed by the Casino for several months. He was taken to the Tombs Police Court yesterday morning and remanded back to the Central Office.

THE EMMA BOND HORROR.

HILLHOLM, Ill., Dec. 16.—Lawrence Heinslein, uncle of John Montgomery, one of the defendants in the Bond case, testified on Friday that, on the morning after the outrage, Mrs. Pettis, her son, Lee, and Clementi stopped at his house after taking Miss Bond to her home. Mrs. Pettis told him of the affair. Lee Pettis and Clementi refused to answer any questions or alarm the neighborhood. Witness found in the loft of the school house at daylight Miss Bond's parasol and scarf pin, and discovered a hole freshly cut through the flooring of the west end of it. When Montgomery heard there were scratches and cuts on Miss Bond's neck, he exclaimed, "My God, what will we do?" Montgomery asked if he would be protected if he knew anything and would give it away. Witness said he found a pool of blood on the school house floor, just beneath the scullery-hole. This corroborated Miss Bond's statement that when attempting to get up she fell and caused her nose to bleed. He also picked up some hair over a foot long in the loft.

AFTER THE GAMBLERS.

A Heavy Raid Made in Chicago on Complaint of a Victim's Wife.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—The police raided last night the notorious gambling den owned and run by Al. Hankins, on Clark street, and some fifty players, named Green, "Jell" Hankins, and John C. Cullum, keepers, were arrested. Three are lay outs, two roulette wheels, and a wheel of chips were seized and will be turned. Hankins promptly furnished the required bail for all the prisoners, who were accordingly released. The raid was caused by a complaint from Mrs. M. Oliver, the wife of a well-known member of the Board of Trade, who claims that her husband has almost ruined himself by gambling at cards, and last night took $1,500 of her own money, losing it all in Hankins' place.

THE MYSTERY STILL MYSTERIOUS.

Further Particulars About the Extraordinary Suicide of Miss Keiser.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The body of Miss Rosa E. Keiser, the young lady who committed suicide in the room of George Dunn at the Windsor Hotel, still lies in an ice pack at the undertaking establishment to which it was removed. Her mother and two sisters are expected from Utica this afternoon. Several ladies and gentlemen called during the morning to view the remains, claiming acquaintance with deceased. The features of the unfortunate woman were placid and composed, and did not betray the least sign of a violent end. There is a theory among many people of the hotel that Miss Keiser went to the hotel bent on killing Dunn, and was deterred by the sympathy Mrs. Dunn expressed for her position. Miss Keiser is spoken of as a lady of very high temperaments, and it is supposed she committed the deed under the excitement of the moment. Detective Schofield said that when he went to the door of Miss Keiser's room he heard Miss Keiser say: "You have wronged me and will yet be sorry for it." To some remark made by Mrs. Dunn, who spoke in a low tone, Miss Keiser replied: "You are a liar," and repeated the expression four times.

"How can you account for the act?" "I can only form an opinion from today's developments and previous knowledge of some of the actors in the tragedy. Mr. Dunn and his mother have boarded here during the last two winters. Another boarder for about five years has been Mr. Dunn's wife. She was a Mrs. Alexander, a wealthy widow. She and Mr. Dunn were married a few days ago. After their marriage Miss Keiser came here two or three times and asked for Mr. Dunn. He refused to see her. Now, from the fact of the marriage, Miss Keiser's charge that she had been wronged, and the accusations against Mrs. Dunn (as I heard them through the door), I infer that Miss Keiser believed that Mrs. Dunn had meanly supplanted her in Mr. Dunn's affections, after he, Mr. Dunn, had acted very unjustly to her. Previous to the marriage, Miss Keiser sometimes took meals with Mr. Dunn and his mother in the dining room."

QUEER DIVORCE SUIT.

Marrying an Alleged White Man and Finding Him a Negro.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 16.—Emma J. Harrington has applied to the Circuit Court for a divorce from her husband, Robert Fearing, on the ground of miscegenation. It appears that Robert Fearing, the defendant, is of such light complexion that the evidences of African blood in his veins are not distinguishable. He was employed in the United States Revenue Marine Service and married Miss Harrington in Cairne, Maine, on May 8, 1879, she supposing him to be of the Caucasian race. Subsequently Fearing took his wife to North Carolina to visit his relatives, and the wife claims that there, to her surprise, she discovered her husband to be of African descent. She is now a resident of Maryland, and, as miscegenation is prohibited by the laws of Maryland, she asks for a decree declaring the marriage null from the date of its celebration. She is pretty and has abundant means.

GROCERIES,

THE BOTTLE IMP.

A Voice Speaks from Within a Mammoth Champagne Bottle,

And Gives Points on the Ins and Outs of the Perambulating Advertising Business.

[New York Sun.]

The gilded neck of a contrivance fashioned in the similitude of a champagne bottle towered above the heads of the throng in Fifth avenue. A pair of legs protruded from the bottom. Half way up, on the side which faced in the direction of its progress, was a small opening, with a grating across it. Stepping alongside, the reporter rapped near the grating.

"Who's there?" came a challenge in hollow tones from within.

The response, "A friend," suggested itself, and was spoken.

"What do you want?" said the voice.

"Want to ask how you like this thing."

The bottle became communicative, and as it toddled along up the avenue the voice said: "It all depends on the weather. A man as understands the business will accommodate himself to the seasons. He will tote a banner, or, may be, carry a lettered umbrella or wear a painted linen duster during the season of raw northeast winds comes on," and go into a bottle for the winter. Banners is better than banners in cold weather. The wind always blows up or down the street, so a fellow is pretty well protected most of the time. When he comes to a crossing if he finds the wind whistling across pretty sharp, he can walk edgewise, and protect himself. But in right-down cold weather a bottle is as much better than banners as a double-breasted beaver overcoat is better than a liver pad.

"Then, again, in hot weather, no man as knows himself will go into a bottle, unless he happens to be a chap as has seen a good deal better days, and don't want to be recognized by his friends. Take a ward politician in reduced circumstances, frimance—he don't want to be seen carrying a banner or between banners, he's glad enough to go into a bottle for the heated term. Then there is once in a while a chap as has reasons for sort o' keeping out o' view, you know, and he is ready for a bottle any time in the year. I ain't telling no names, but I know a party what kept away from the police for a month or more, till they got off his track, by doing the bottle act. He used to toddle along the avenue, right by the side of the detectives who was looking for him. He wasn't any of your poverty-stricken sort, but lived like a fighting cock—carried a bottle of the best old stuff in his coat pocket, lunched on boned sardines when he was loafing along, and smoked real Havanas. The smoke? Oh, that was all right. He blew it out of the lookout, and, if anybody saw it, they thought it just curled up from the cigar of somebody else who was passing.

"We ain't all so soney as this chap was," the voice went on; "but we manage to have a good many comforts. My cupboard ain't very replete with luxuries, but I can offer you a hunk of gingerbread, half a sandwich and a clay pipe of tobacco. Generally speaking, it ain't safe to light a pipe till dusk, and then you have to be careful when you light up, and to hold your hand over the bowl when you smoke. But the neck of the bottle holds the smoke in, and you can snuff it up half a dozen times before it gets out.

"Heavy!" the voice said, in response to an inquiry. "Not very. You see this thing is made of a sort of oil-cloth over a skeleton like a hoop skirt. The whole business don't weigh much more than an ulster. For a rainy day there ain't nothing like it. No matter how hard it pours you're dry as a hunk. Another advantage of being in a bottle when the weather is suitable is that you can go against the wind about as good as with it—presents a smooth and rounding surface, and you don't get blown all over the sidewalk as you do with big flat boards.

"Oh a little is good enough for me till next May," said the voice at parting. "Come around and call again during the winter. If I don't recognize your knock, just sing out, and I shall know your voice."

Monopolists and Monopoly.

[R. J. Burlotte.]

A monopolist isn't necessarily a millionaire. He is simply the man who holds the whip-handle. It is derived from two Latin words, mono and pole, meaning the man at the pole. And the man with the pole, you know, knocks the persimmons. He may knock a million of them, or he may knock only two, but while he is knocking you don't get any.

Hence, my son, a monopoly is a prosperous combination of which we are not one. This makes it very wicked, avaricious, and dangerous.

When we get into it it ceases to be a monopoly, and becomes a union, a brotherhood, a firm, an association or corporation. This change of title also involves a great moral change, and it becomes a mighty engine of progress, a developer of our country's resources, a factor in the national prosperity, and all that sort of thing.

A monopoly is a thing which it is hard to get into.

If you live to be 35 years old and haven't been able to get into any other monopoly by that time, I would advise you to go to the North Pole and start an ice-cream saloon.

The Latest About Sitting Bull.

[St. James' Gazette.]

You were quite right (a correspondent says) in remarking on Monday that "for wonderful stories we must read Le Figaro." The story recapitulated in your note was certainly a wonderful one; but it has been improved upon since. A redskin of high position had, so it seems, been converted in his childhood to Christianity; and he was brought to England in order to be educated at Eaton, "where the birch was, and we believe still is, in full swing." This form of government at the "Alma Mater" being distasteful to the young Indian, he lay in wait for the master who had inflicted it upon him, got him to the ground and scalped him. This incident, the chronicler of Le Figaro ingeniously adds, "aroused great sensation about forty years ago." The young redskin, who had for a long time been lost sight of, has been identified as no other than Sitting Bull, one of the leading Indian chiefs in the United States.

Advice to Matthew Arnold.

[New York World.]

Matthew Arnold does not promise to be a success as a lecturer in this country. He mixes too much sweetness with his light. In other words, his voice is too confidential for the people on the back seats, who have paid their money and who want to hear the ends of the lofty sentences. We are accustomed to bear public speakers howl in this country, and our public halls are large and full of draughts. Mr. Arnold should throw his chest open like a bear and let his voice ride the breeze, or, what is our people may not all become acquainted with the great thoughts that rise in him.

It doesn't cost a great deal to subside the Black Flag soldiers of China.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE
The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. Read proof below.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.
SANTA ROSA, California, Feb. 9, 1882.
B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gentles—I feel it a duty to others suffering with the piles and jailing of the rectum to write to you. I have had the piles and protrusions of the rectum for five years, for the past three years I have suffered the most agonizing pain. I tried everything without relief, but after ten days' use of Kendall's Spavin Cure, I have not seen or heard of the piles since. One who has not suffered as I have cannot comprehend the great joy that I felt at being cured of a disease almost worse than death. I had a valuable young horse that had a large bunch gather on his breast bone. I tried all kinds of liniments and had it cut open without any benefit. Saw your advertisement and bought a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and ordered my teamster to use as directed. In less than one week the lump had disappeared. Thinking that a liniment that would do what Kendall's Spavin Cure has done for my horse might benefit more, I tried it as a last resort. With gratitude and best wishes for your success, I am faithfully yours,
J. H. GLENN.

Kendall's Spavin Cure
On HUMAN flesh.

VEVAY, IND., AUG. 12th, 1881.
DR. R. J. KENDALL & Co., Gentles: Sample of circulars received to-day. Please send me some with any liniment printed on one side only. The Kendall's Spavin Cure is in excellent demand with us, and not only for animals, but for human ailments also. Mr. Joe. Noble, one of the leading farmers in our county, sprained an ankle badly, and knowing the value of the remedy for horses, tried it on himself, and it did far better than he had expected. Cured the sprain in very short order.
Yours respectfully,
C. G. THIERMAN.

Three Particular Points.
Point the First.—BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is not an intoxicating compound. It is a tonic medicine, not a drink. It is a skillfully compounded preparation made to restore strength and health; not a beverage to be sold in bar-rooms and taverns.
Point the Second.—BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is free from everything injurious. The most delicate ladies and the most enfeebled infants may use it with perfect safety and with great advantage. While it is powerful in its remedial agency, it is gentle in its operation, restoring strength and imparting robust health in the most efficient manner.
Point the Third.—BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is made by the Brown Chemical Company of Baltimore, a long established house, whose reputation is well known to the business world and the general community. There is no risk in buying such a medicine.
